The mailcarrier said that the Northerners had first blockaded the port of St. Marc, after which Legitime's army moved toward the interior, and on the second day's march encountered a detachment of Hippolyte's army with the above result. The success of the Legitime soldiers was due to the superiority of their arms. The Lesson of the British Naval Maneuvers. LONDON, Feb. 21.-Extracts from the report of the committee on naval maneuvers in 1888 will be presented to the House of Commons to-day. They say that the nation has every reason to be satisfied with the personnel of the navy, but that the main lesson of the maneuvers is that Great Britain is far from being as strong as she should be on the seas. They say; "We are decidedly of the opinion that no time ought to be lost in placing the navy beyond comparison with the combined naval forces of any two powers. At the same time we believe the navy is strong enough to engage any single maratime power with success."

Pigott Nearly Collapsed. NEW YORK, Feb. 21.-The Evening Sun's London special says: "After Pigott had been under cross-examination for only a few minutes to-day the forger made a sad exhibition. He faltered and hesitated, and it was clear to every one in the audience that but for the fact that the court opportunely arose, he would have collapsed. Morally and physically he is a wreck. The concensus of opinion of men of all shades of political opinion is that the Times' case has already utterly broken down. The general feeling is that Pigott will to-morrow either confess the forgeries or refuse to answer further questions and be arrested.

Long before this exposure he had been secretly assailing the National movement, and since that he has both openly and covertly carried on a warfare against Mr. Parnell and especially against me, culminating in the "Parnellism and Crime's" articles and the forged letters. With the exposure of the villainous authorship of the articles and the forgeries the London Times stands condemned."

WHIRLWIND'S WORDS.

He Fears the Effects of the Invasion of the Whites of Indian Territory and Pleads for Protection. New York, Feb. 21.-A Herald special from Fort Reno, I. T., says a delegation of seventeen chiefs and head men of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe tribes, headed by Whirwind, chief of the Cheyennes, called on Colonel Wade, commanding at Fort Reno, on Tuesday, to submit through him a petition to the President and Congress. Whirlwind made an eloquent speech embodying the subject of the petition. He feared the effects of the invasion of the whites, which will undoubtedly take place if the "Oklahoma bill" becomes a law. He asked for protection to the Indians in their rights. On account of droughts they are unable to support themselves by farming, and they ask for land enough to enable them to raise stock. If white people must have a portion of the land which the Indians had supposed was for their own use, let the Indians be kept in a body, and not scattered throughout the Territory. They desire to be their own neighbors while their children are being educated. Whirlwind feared that they will be placed at the mercy of white men, and that with the whites will come a traffic in whisky, which will prove injurious to the Indians.

born in New York about 1826 and received a common-school education. In 1849 he sailed for California, making the long journey around the Horn. He had trouble sometimes, disappointments and failures and plenty of hard work until 1854, when he became leading partner in the firm of Flood & O'Brien. They kept a liquor saloon and a sort of an exchange. In 1862 these men made their first investment in the Comstock lode, Nevada. John W. Mackay joined them in 1869, and James C. Fair became the o urth partner in the mining property. Flood projected the Nevada bank, in company with Fair and Mackay. It was just previous to this time that he made that heavy call on the Califorma bank which led to its suspension, and ne identally to the suicide of Wm. C. Raiston. Mr. Flood's wealth is estimated at $20,000,000. He had been ailing for some time, and spent considerable time in Heidelberg, whose waters

Not to Be a Precedent. HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 22.-The Gloucester fishing schooner Addie M. Deering arrived here last week from the banks for extensive repairs. Wednesday the repairs were completed, and the vessel not having a license under the modus vivendi, Consul-General Phelan applied to Collector Harrington for permission to take a week's provisions to enable her to return to the banks and complete her voyage. Vessels whose licences have not expired can buy provision; without making application. The collector telegraphed to Ottawa for advice, and yesterday Consul-General Phelan was informed that the vessel could take one week's supply, but that the case was not to be a precedent.

Washington, Feb. 22.-Mr. Springer, at one o'clock to-day, received a note from the President announcing that at eleven o'clock he had signed the Territoral bill. The message was shown about the House, and the friends of the bill gathered in knots and congratulated each other over the successful completion of a long and tedious work. The bill, as finally agreed to, provides for the admission of the States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and Washington. ## FOR HIS WIFE'S SAKE.

Please His Young American Wife.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain May Take a Portfolio in the British Ministry to LONDON, Feb. 22 .- A very well-defined rumor is current in political circles that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain is about to enter the Cabinet. The Home Office is the position mentioned as likely to be filled by the Birmingham statesman. It is said that, personally, on account of the government's faltering condition, Mr. Chamberlain is not particularly desirous of becoming a Minister, but the pleadings of his wife, whose debut into society as the wife of a Cabinet Minister would be greatly enhanced, have great weight with him. The Premier, too, considers it but just that one of

FOUGHT TO KILL. Desperate Fight with Knives at Birmingham, Ala.-One of the Participants

Dead, the Other Badly Carved. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 22.-Birmingham comes to the front again with her usual daily murder or fatal tragedy. Last night as Freight Conductor Joe L. Jones of the Alabama Great Southern pulled into the depot about eight o'clock and stepped off his caboose he was accosted by Albert Knight, an ex-brakeman whom he had discharged some days ago. Words passed and a bloody fight with knives ensued. Jones is lying in the hospital carved all to pieces, and Knight lies a cold corpse at the city police station. It is stated by those who saw the fatal difficulty that Knight must have killed himself, as the only wound apparent about his body is a deep stab on his left leg, just above the knee, evidently striking the femoral artery, and the puncture bears the semblance of a dirk stab, the weapon he handled. He was carried to the police station, and never lived to tell his story.

May be Merely Wanted as a Witness. NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 22.-Edward W. Woodruff, who was secretary of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad under the Ives & Stayner regime, was arrested this morning and taken to police headquarters. It is affirmed by his friends that he never knew of the transaction which ruined the road. They say his duties as secretary were merely perfunctory and that he wasn't guilty of any wrong. It is believed, however, that Woodruff has been in communication with Ives lately. It is probable that Woodruff was arrested merely in order that he might be held as a witness at the coming trial of Ives and Stayner in New Prompt Dealing with a Small-Pox Discovery.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 22.-A case of small-pox was discovered in the Cass School yesterday afternoon by one of the teachers. There were about two hundred pupils in the building at the time. She locked the doors, sent for a physician and kept the children until one arrived. He compeled every child in the entire school building to submit to vaccination, and when this had been accomplished he sent the small-pox patient to the hospital and ordered the rest of the children to go homefollows: Total number in the building, 42; dead. 22: injured, 10; escaped, 10.

The story leaked out, and the parents of the pupils are much excited.
